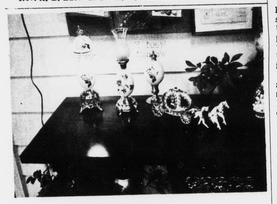
First House In Subdision

Construction work continued Friday on the first house to be built in the new Meadowlark Subdivision, Appomattox as workmen (above) applied roofing materials to a three-bedroom rancher for Mrs. Janie West. Contractor is McGrath Construction Co. and David Nash, developer of the subdivision says that plans now underway call for additional housing by other local contractors in the near fugure. The subdivision is located on Road 1009 on the north-central boundary line of the town of Appomattox. Mrs. West's house is located on Stevens Street.

NHS Tours Washington

Members of the Mozella J. Price chapter of the National Honor Society of Appomattox County High School,plus other classmates, took a tour of Washington, D.C, recently. The photographer got a lens-full of young faces (above) as the group stopped near Charlottesville. The visitors toured the Smithsonian Institute, Washington Monument, the Senate galley, Arlington cemetery and other points of interest. Chaperrones included chapter sponsor, Mrs. Hezteine Foster, the Rev. A. L. Eastman and H. W. Conner.



Egg Shells Now Lamps

The technique of "candling" eggs calls for a light by which someone can look through the egg to spot inperfections in the grading house, but Mrs. V. A. Staten (Dixie) at Dee Crafts, Route 4, Appomattox, has gone quite a bit further with "egg technique". Two of these egg creations (above)are lamps and both operate with tiny light bulbs. One is a Tiffany style with tiny fringed Tiffany shade fashioned from half a goose egg. The other is a Hurricane type lamp with egg shell base. And Ciderella's coach is (you guessed it), another goose egg with decorated windows from which Cinderella can view the scene as her white steeds carry her to the ball. These and other rather fantastic egg creations are Mrs. Staten's work and similar items are fashioned by her students who attend classes in egg decoration technique, decoupage' and other types of craft work.

That haze across the photo is actually the hickory smoke from hamburger grills and these hungry FFA-FHA members of Appomattox waiting on Saturday afternoon at the picnic shelter, Holliday Lake, for somebody to yell, "Come and get it." Vo-Ag instructor Richard Carter says that 100 pounds of hamburger were cooked AND enjoyed by the hungry crowd which had been enjoying swimming, volley ball and a summer session of football by the concession stand at the park.

DDT-TDE Use Discouraged

This year, tobacco will be sampled at the market place to determine if producers used pesticides containing DDT and TDE on their tobacco, J. P. Alvis, Jr., Chairman of the Appomattox County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, announced.

Random samples will be taken from the tobacco at time of marketing, These samples will be chemically analyzed to determine DDT-TDE residues, if any. Each producer will be asked to certify whether or not DDT or TDE was used on the tobacco after it was planted in the field, before a marketing card will be issued for the farm. As in the past two years, tobacco producers using DDT or TDE are not eligible for government loans on their crops. False certification concerning use of these materials is a violation of federal law.

Both domestic and foreign buyers are concerned about the level of DDT and TDE in their purchases in certain areas last year. Some have indicated that they have reduced their purchases in those areas this year.

"It is important for every tobacco grower to avoid use of DDT and TDE", Mr. Alvis, said, "because these pesticides are a serious threat to the market outlets for our tobacco. If even a small amount of tobacco with DDT or TDE content is included during the redrying and packing processes, large quantities of other tobacco being processed can be affected, resulting in an adverse marketing situation."
